The Department of Educational Studies within UBC’s Faculty of Education, one of the world’s leading faculties of its kind, invites applications for the position of Assistant Professor (tenure-track) in Economics of Educational Equity.

The Department of Educational Studies, in the Faculty of Education at The University of British Columbia (UBC), invites applications for a full-time tenure-track Assistant Professor position in the area of Economics of Educational Equity. The University of British Columbia (UBC) is located on the unceded, ancestral and traditional territories of the x̱wməθkwəy̓əm (Musqueam) people in Vancouver, Canada. The appointment is expected to begin on July 1, 2024, or as negotiated with the successful candidate.

The successful candidate must hold a PhD in Economics or in the field of the Economics of Education and is expected to engage in research and teaching that brings an economic lens to issues of equity in education by focusing on the critical confluence of human behaviour, educational policy, and social justice. We welcome applications from candidates who (1) focus on concrete educational problems and issues in society from innovative economic perspectives; (2) contribute to the growth of the Department of Educational Studies through the development of theory and methods courses in the economics of education; and (3) contribute to one or more departmental program areas (Adult Learning and Education; Educational Administration and Leadership; Higher Education; Indigenous education; Society, Culture, and Politics).

Candidates should demonstrate a promising record of scholarly accomplishments and teaching in the economics of education. The successful candidate is expected to (a) establish a program of original, externally funded (e.g., Tri-Council, foundation, and partnership grants) research; (b) teach undergraduate and graduate courses in the Department/Faculty and supervise graduate students; (c) participate in service activities within the Department, Faculty, University and in the broader scholarly community; and (d) collaborate with scholars within the Department, across Faculties at UBC, and internationally. The annual teaching load for this position is 12 credits (equivalent to four courses).
This is a tenure-track position in the Professoriate stream. The successful candidate will be reviewed for reappointment, promotion, and tenure in subsequent years in accordance with the Collective Agreement. For more information on the review process and criteria for promotion in this stream, please visit: www.hr.ubc.ca/faculty-relations/collective-agreements/appointment-faculty/. This position is subject to final budgetary approval. Starting salary is determined both by the candidate’s qualifications and experience and by their placement on the career progress increments scale within the Faculty of Education.

The Department of Educational Studies, the Faculty of Education and UBC are dedicated to the goal of building a diverse and inclusive academic community. Values of equity, diversity, inclusion, anti-racism, and anti-oppression are an important part of our mission. We strongly encourage applications from candidates who can demonstrate through their teaching, research, experience and service that they can contribute to this goal. A valuable additional qualification is familiarity with, and experience conducting research and using pedagogical methods that enable students across Indigenous, racial, ethnic, sexual and gender identity and socio-economic groups and people with disability to reach their maximum potential. Candidates should have a strong commitment to fostering inclusivity and teaching effectively in a welcoming environment. Please refer to UBC’s Strategic Plan, its Indigenous Strategic Plan and the Faculty of Education’s Strategic Plan. For more information about the Faculty of Education’s commitments and work related to equity, diversity, inclusion, and decolonization, please visit educ.ubc.ca/equity.
